ABOUT THE ARTIST

Ryan Bucko's lifelong passion for architecture, combined with his 25+ years as a design professional, are the fuel for his work as a cross-disciplinary artist. Based in San Francisco, Bucko is currently focused on creating paintings, sculptures, and large scale installations. As a painter, his compositions contrast abstract expressionism with unexpected architectural elements, creating visual experiences which invite viewers to unique vantage points and new understandings. This combination of energetic textures and meticulously engineered features results in a notably distinct artistic voice.

Bucko's work is featured in art galleries and private collections throughout the U.S., the Triton Museum of Art, and a permanent installation at the American Institute of Architects headquarters in San Francisco, CA.
